PERSONALLY SPEAKING

By: Your Editor.

HELLO! In this column your editor will hereafter run a weekly collection of views and thoughts on any subject under the sun. Like Gelett Burgess, we will ramble from the fabled "cabbages to kings."

STAMPS: M-m-m, m-m-m! Haint our new postage stamps purty? Seems like we get a new issue every month or so Must make a lotta dead folks happy to get their pictures on U.S. postage stamps—but how the new issues do burn up the taxpayers' money for new drawings, engravings and dies.—all we, the customers, get out of it is lawful transportation for our letters—with sweet tasting stickumgoo on the reverse of the stamps. But then, our President is a philatelist, so will have to be forgiven his costly hobby.

SIGNS: Didja ever go into a drug store or a grocery store in search of one single item, and gaze in perplexed despair at the plethora (nice word, that!) of sings. advertisements and specials which cover every inch of shelf and counter space and run around the walls clear up to the ceiling? You can .invest a studious half hour, and by patient elimination finally run down that which you came in to purchase.

The French do this so much better than we commercial-minded Americans. The smart shops on the renowned bois of Paris display a SINGLE ITEM in their small store windows: a lone item placed majestically on a piece of elegant plush or satin, backed by a piece of costly carved walnut.

Robert Service, fictioneer of the last generation wrote a masterpiece on the art of decoration and display. using just one sentence, to wit: "a single blossom against a background of nothing at all."

That's a sermon in a sentence for storekeepers who pile everything into their street windows that cubic capacity permits, excepting their customers to sort of "take inventory" in a glance.

The smart storekeeper will display a few hot leaders, leaving lots of blank space for emphasis. The customers will do the rest!

ALLERGIC: Funny how clever people adopt fads in verbal affectation. A few years ago Proper People bandied their "libidos" about freely. Today, to be just right, one must have a pet "allergy."

The dictionary definitions of allergy are a bit difficult: the bigger the dictionary the more involved the definitions. It all boils down to this: to be allergic to certain sensations or impressions, such as a particular movie actor, a special kind of tobacco, a jingling sound, or the odor of wild mustard, means to "derive unpleasant effects from certain susceptibilities." (That makes it more involved than ever!) Your cribe is particularly allergic to . . .

SMALL TYPE: which is an abomination in the sight of heaven. If information to be conveyed to the reader is of sufficient importance to warrant being printed at all it should be printed in large enough type that "he who runs may read"—without the aid of glasses. knit brows and close concentration.

Look at the directions on most of the bottles in your medicine cabinet, or at the directions or analyses of contents printed on the labels of most caned goods. Or look at the enormous amount of material crowded into nearly evtry magazine advertisement you read. Space is costly, yes,—but why attempt to take inventory or give a life history of a product in one advertisement?

A dozen or twenty well chosen words, supplementing an illustration. all set off by a quantity of white space, will get your entire message across to the reader in one look.

By contrast: how many readers plow through every word printed in any daily newspaper or magazine? No one does. The reader glances casually at the pictures, if any, grasps the bold catch lines, then yawns and turns the page.

Thus a lot of copy writers and compositors have wasted a lot of time overdoing that which delivers the message best when underdone! (This jeremiad refers to advertisements, not news stories.)

NILES CHAMBER SEEKS INCREASED MAIL SERVICE

COMMUNICATION SUGGESTS PLANTING OF RUBBER ON STATE MARGINAL LANDS

The Niles Chamber of Commerce, lunching Monday noon at the Florence Restaurant, moved unanimously to ask Postmaster Ed Enos to take the necessary steps to provide increased mail service, particularly from the bay region in the afternoon incoming, for patrons of the Niles pistoffice.

A card posted in the bulletin case in the lobby of the Niles Postoffice reveals that three mails from all points arrive here at 8, 8:15 and 9 a.m daily, with two additional mails arriving via star route truck each afternoon. Five outgoing mails art despatched daily, three in the forenoon and two in the afternoon, Postmaster Edward Enos advises this newspaper.

Another matter considered by the members was the encouraging of planting Guayle rubber in California, upon the suggestion of a communication received from the Salinas Chamber. With the prospect of imports of rubber from foreign countries being reduced or cut off because of the present war in Europe, California growers might seize upon the opportunity to grow this staple, which bears heavily even on poor land, and the plants enjoy a long life.

Secretary A. J. Petsche was instructed to send the Niles Chamber's approval of the project to the Salinas body.

Editor Walter Waynflete, the new owner of The Township Register, was introduced by the chair, and said a few words of greeting. He attended as a guest of Secrtary Petsche.

The Township Register is now a member of the Niles Chamber of Commerce.

JOHN HARVEY GOULD, WORLD WAR VETERAN PASSED AWAY FRIDAY

(Special to The Register)

NEWARK, May 3—Word was received here of the death of John Harvey Gould in the Stockton Hospital Friday morning, after an illness of several months. He was the brother of W. J. Gould of Newark. He was born in Chicago, Illinois 52 years ago, and most of his youth was spent in Santa Clara County, and in Laurel where he attended grammar school. Gould was in Australia when the World War broke out, and joined the English forces with whom he fought in France. Following the War he spent some time in Newark and Washington Township where he was well-known.

He was employed until about four years ago on the maintenance crew for the Western Union Telegraph Company in California, Nevada, and the Middle Western states. Prior to his illness Gould was employed on a road-building project in the Northern part of the state. Services were held Monday afternoon at one o'clock at the Frisbie & Warren Funeral Home in Stockton under the auspices of the Stockton chapter of the Canadian Legion. Cremation took place at the Stockton crematorium.

REVIVAL: Representative Martin Dies, chairman of the Dies investigating committee, who is a pretty tough hombre, told the general assembly of the Methodist church last week that "the only thing which would save democracy in the United States is a good old-fashioned religious revival. There can be no democracy and no freedom in this country" said Dies, "without the Christian Religion. If democracy fails in our land it will be because the people turned their back on God"

And that, coming from a hard-boiled cititen like Mr. Dies, shines like The Truth.

ELLSWORTHS HAVE SECOND GRANDSON

Mr and Mrs E. A Ellsworth received news of the birth of their second grandson last month—a son having been born to Mr and Mrs Edward Ellsworth of Berkeley at the Paralta Hospital. The child is the grand-nephew of the late Mayor Oliver Bryant Ellsworth of Piedmont and will bear the name of Oliver Bryant.

Mr and Mrs Ellseworth plan to visit their daughter, Mrs Jack Boylin at Yorba Linda this week, and another new grandson, Robert Ellsworth Boylin, born about two weeks ago.

TOWNSHIP AWAITS PRESENTATION OF P.T.A. PLAY MAY 18

Rehearsals for the Niles P.T.A. play "Leave it to Mother" are progressing enthusiastically and an excellent production is promised the scores of Township people who are planning to see it at the Niles grammar school on Saturday evening, May 18.

Mrs. Roland Bendel is cast in the title role of the "Mother". This is particularly appropriate as Mrs. Bendel may be truly counted as the mother of the whole Niles P.T.A. unit, because it was she who originally discussed the formation of such a unit with the school principal, Mr. E. D. Bristow, and called for the appointment of the organizing committee. For the full fifteen years of its existence, she has been an active member of the unit, and after eleven years of faithful service was made a life member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Outstanding Worker

Mrs. Reginald Calhoun is also an outstanding P.T.A. worker. During her two years as president the local unit has attained a membership of 166, including 40 men, and has maintained P.T.A. standard requirements for the only two years of its existence. Mrs. Calhoun's goal has been to make the P.T.A. a living force in the community. Under her leadership the unit has sponsored and organized the Niles Girl Scouts and Niles Brownies. The present play is the climax of her endeavor, and has caught the interest of the whole Township.

There are other outstanding local persons in the cast, which is to be completed this week and announced later. Berkeley Buckingham, from the drama departmtnt of the WPA Recreational Division in Oakland. is directing. Mr. Buckingham has produced plays recently in Warm Springs, Valle Vista, Alvarado and Ashland, all of which have been played to capacity houses. This is just one more reason why the Township is waiting for May 18.

EMERYVILLE RODEO SATURDAY, SUNDAY AT OAKLAND PARK

With the Emeryville Rodeo and Thrill Circus set to go Saturday and Sunday, May 4 and 5, in the Oakland ball park, Emeryville went wild west this week with merchants and citizens decked out in full beards, ten gallon hats, and wild colors.

Bringing the top cow hands from as far as Texas, Canada and Mexico, Dick Ryan's Rodeo with its thrilling dangerous events, promises to be the leading show of the season and the top event in East Bay Fiesta events.

With $5000 record prize money in the wild Brahma steer riding, bronc busting, wild cow milking and calf roping events the rodeo will feature the most complete wild west billing ever shown in Metropolitan Oakland.

SALAD LUNCHEON

St James Guild of Centerville is giving a salad luncheon on Wednesday May 15 at 1 p.m. Please send in reservations to Mrs Robert Tyson, chairman, or any guild member.

DEWEY JOINS REPUBLICANS!

Among the many honors showered upon dynamic Thomas E. Dewey, New York's racket-busting district attorney and aspirant for the Republican nomination for the presidency, during his recent visit to Califosnia, was his induction as an honorary member of the Los Angeles chapter, Young Republicans of California.

New Womens Club Installed Monday Evening At Niles

Visitors from Oakland, Hayward Livermore and San Jose joined members of the new Business and Professional Women's Club of Washington Township for the installation ceremonies at a formal dinner held in the Veterans Memorial Building Monday night Eighty persons were served by the Auxiliary of the Washington Township Post, American Legion with Mrs May Souza in charge.

Clubs represented were from the aboved-named towns. Installing officers were Florence Stahl of San Jose, State vice-president; Elsie Beaumont of Oakland, district membership chairman and Emma Fredericks of Hayward, membership chairman of the Hayward Club which was sponsor of the new organization.

The local club was formed several months ago and the charter was closed with 50 members, representing about 20 classifications of business and professional women from the entire township.

Gifts from visiting delegations were presented to the new club including an American flag from Hayward, a gong from Mrs Fredericks and Mrs Lillian Hauschildt; guest book from Oakland and flowers from San Jose The charter was presented by Florence Stahl.

The emblem ceremony was put on by the Hayward Club with the following taking part: Eldora Thorndyke, Bernadine Quinlan, Ireme Milton, Pearl Farrel, Florence Slaytor, Hellen Lillard and Carol Kelly, musician. Vocal numbers were given by Nellie Pauline Gordon of Hayward, accompanied by Harriet Thornburg of Irvington. Arrangements for the dinner were made by a committee headed by Mrs. Lucetta Duffey

Officers seated were Jean LaCome, president; Madelyn Westphal, vice-president; Gertrude Enos, recording secretary; Lavon Sorensen, corressponding secretary; Violet Kliene, financial secretary; Dorothy Belshaw, treasurer; Olive Dias, auditor; and Marjorie Moore, Matilda Enos, Gertrude Adams and Lucetta Duffey, directors.

BOOSTERS MEET TONIGHT

Judge Inspects Accident Scene On Highway Nearby

CENTERVILLE, May 3—Session of the Niles Justice Court was adjourned to the Creek Road between Alvarado and Niles Friday afternoon when counsel for the defendant and the complaining witness failed to agree on the location of scars on the highway following an accident a month ago.

William White, city attorney for Hayward, representing Osamu Sam Akinaga, 19, of 384 Winton ave., Hayward, insisted that road scars showed the impact between Akinaga's car and that of Manuel Martinez of Alvarado took place four inches from the white line on Martinez' side of the road, while Martinez and Highway Patrolman Tony Rose insisted the mark was three feet from the white line.

"Nothing to do but go and look at the mark," agreed Judge Allen G. Norris and Deputy District Attorney Joe Schenone. So a caravan of cars carrying defendant, witnesses, attorneys, judge, Deputy Sheriff Tom Silva, bailiff and newspaper reporters set off down the highway.

Highway Patrolman L. Avilla, with Rose when arrest was made, was ill and could not be present to testify, so the judge continued the case for a week for further consideration. Martinez testified he lost his car and his job because of the accident.

Free Physical Exam Offered At Centerville

CENTERVILLE, May 3—A preschool physical examination will be conducted at the Centerville Grammar School next Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Parents whose children are to start school at the opening of the next school year will be given the pportunity of having them given very careful physical examinations free of cost.

The object of these examinations is to discover and correct any physical defects the child may have before he starts to school. The defects most commonly found in children are decayed teeth, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, defective eyes and ears, underweight etc. Every child should have the advantage of this examination and mothers are urged to accompany their children.

The Centerville Parent-Teacher's Association is sponsoring the examination and the following committee is handling arrangements: Miss Mary Dias, chairman, Mrs. Teresa Ornellas, Mrs. George Pimental and Mrs A. E. Rogers.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS • • • •

New German Troop Movements Threaten Sweden's Neutrality; Norway's Battlefront Widened

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union

THE WAR:
Two Million Men

As the British government announced that the empire "now has 2,000,000 men under arms" military experts were speculating as to how many of this number had landed in Norway, current theater of World War II. There was terrific fighting in Norway and Norwegian coastal waters, that much was sure. But conflicting reports from London, Berlin and Stockholm clouded the picture.

Nazi official sources admitted for the first time that their forces had clashed with allied troops on Norwegian soil. Direct combat was centered around Steinkjer, where it appeared the British had been routed, and around the "gateway" to Oslo, a strategic valley north of that city.

It was in this sector near the city of Dombas that Robert Losey, U. S. military air attache, was killed during a German air raid. He was hit in the heart by a bomb splinter as he stood near a mountain tunnel being used for air raid protection.

Around Oslo itself, guerilla warfare was in progress. Small bands of the scattered Norwegian forces teamed up with British troops and staged periodic raids upon points held by the Germans. Germans claimed to be beating off these attacks and said they were pushing their outposts further into the interior.

British air patrols were busy raining bombs on German, Danish and Norwegian coastal bases of the Nazi air force in desperate efforts to cut off homeland communications and supplies of troops. Meanwhile German officials claimed that England was attacking non-military objects and threatened reprisals — they feared bombing of open villages and towns.

Digging In

At home, allies and Germans alike were taking measures to strengthen the home front. While Germans pulled in their belts another notch with more restricted rations being effected, England launched a salvage campaign similar to the Nazi requests for scrap iron. (See cut.) Staging an "Old Iron day," the British government asked for scrap metal of every description. And they got it. Bedsteads, stoves, perambulators and washing machines were among the thousands of articles tossed into the melting pot to become sinews of war.

BRITISH SALVAGE DRIVE
A lesson from Mr. Hitler

England also announced a new budget and imposed a host of new taxes and levies.

CONGRESS:
Slush

Seeking the aid of G-men, the senate campaign investigating committee is opening up inquiries into complaints of "slush" funds and other political misbehavior in five states—Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Maryland and West Virginia. Chairman Gillette, Democrat of Iowa, omitted to name the source of the complaints but ordered investigators to check reports he had received.

As far as West Virginia was concerned there was no secret about the complaint source, for that state's Senator Neely (Democrat) stated he had requested the inquiry to "prevent the statehouse machine from debauching and corrupting the elections with the use of money and whiskey . . ." Neely is a candidate for governor this year.

In Nebraska, recent primary election expenditures were to be checked; Missouri investigators would look for evidence of improper use of funds in that state's senatorial race and another race for the senate was being reviewed in Maryland. Investigators had already returned from Kansas with reports of their findings on reported "improper use of state patronage" in connection with selecting Republican convention delegates. Public hearings on this investigation have been scheduled to get under way within two weeks.

NEUTRALS:
Baltic Barometer

Ever since the Nazi war machine showed its teeth to their Norwegian neighbors the Swedish people have been hoping that their land will not be the eventual battlefield of the Scandinavian campaign. Vowing to "fight for neutrality" Swedish officials now have received reports that German troops and arms are being embarked from Nazi controlled ports directly across the Baltic from Sweden's shores. Some sources believed the troops were bound for Norway, but with the ships went ice-breaking vessels and it is Sweden's ports—not Norway's—that are still winter-blocked.

ORIENT:
Inevitable?

After Secretary of State Hull made it clear recently that the status quo must be maintained in the Dutch East Indies and Japan politely agreed, it appeared that for a while at least, Uncle Sam could relax his vigilance in that sector just a bit. But as two warships of the U. S. Asiatic fleet sped northward out of Manilla to check on the report that the British navy was spreading its blockade of Germany to Eastern waters, Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig was telling the senate naval affairs committee in Washington that war with Japan was inevitable.

REAR ADMIRAL TAUSSIG
He fears war with Japan.

Said the admiral: "I cannot see how we can ultimately prevent being drawn into war on account of the Far Eastern situation. We would be warranted in using economic and financial means and, if necessary, force, to preserve the integrity of China."

Admiral Taussig believes that the government at Tokyo has a definite program for world conquest that will some day have to be reckoned with. Such a program, he claims, includes the gobbling up of the Philippines, French Indo-China, the Netherlands Indies, and other sections of the Far East.

Next day, Hamilton Fish, Republican representative from New York, denounced the admiral's statement and told his colleagues that congress should investigate inflammatory speeches of navy officers. He said he believed navy officers thought the only duty of the fleet was to go to war with Japan.

Meanwhile a report came out of Tokyo that German and British diplomats were striving desperately for Japan's "benevolent neutrality" in connection with the present European war. Great Britain is trying to extend her blockade to Pacific waters and keep war materials from the East Indies from reaching Germany via Pacific shipping lanes, the port of Vladivostok, and the trans-Siberian railway.

NAMES
in the news . . .

James H. R. Cromwell, U. S. minister to Canada, will resign within the next month to run for the Democratic senatorial nomination in New Jersey. . Secretary of State Hull forced the issue when he stated in Washington that he "expected" Cromwell to relinquish his post before primary election time.

Walter Kohler, millionaire plumbing fixture manufacturer, died at his home in River Bend, Wis.

Commissioner F. C. Harrington told his 2,162,000 WPA employees that they were absolutely free to vote as they pleased. In all current WPA envelopes he enclosed a message which stated: "Voting is your own business, keep it that way . . . No one can fire you because you do not vote or because you do or do not belong to a political party."

The federal appellate court in New Orleans dissolved an injunction against Georgia's Gov. E. D. Rivers, after he re-instated W. L. Miller as chairman of the state highway commission.

STATIC-OF-THE-WEEK

Fred A. Howe (above), a marine radio operator, told the Dies committee that the Communist party had members aboard several American merchant ships so that "in time of war they could help establish a Soviet system here." He said that some of the employees on these ships were radio operators. Plans call for them to execute Soviet orders from their key positions. Howe also charged that the Communist party controls the American Communications association, C. I. O. operators' union.

TRAGEDY:
Holocaust

Usually it is the feared flood that brings news of disaster from along the banks of the Mississippi, but now fire has made its bid for dishonor in the land of the levee. In a Natchez, Miss., dance hall, 247 Negro men and women were burned to death as racing flames trapped them from all chance of escape—a single doorway.

About 500 persons had been dancing for hours to the swing music of Walter Barnes' Negro orchestra of Chicago, when suddenly the decorative—but dry—Spanish moss that hung from the rafters burst into flame. Survivors said that a mad rush for the door followed as the band continued to play in an attempt to avert a panic. At least eight members of the 12-piece band perished.

Investigation showed that there was but one exit to the hall—the front door. Side windows had been boarded up. Exactly what caused the first flame, formal investigation could not determine.

PRESIDENT:
Visitors' Day

When, late in the summer of 1938, in a speech at Kingston, Ontario, Franklin Roosevelt declared that his country would intervene in Canada's cause should that nation ever be invaded, U. S. citizens were inclined to discount his words, for war in Canada seemed far away.

Mackenzie King

Now, with Canadian forces backing up Great Britain in Europe's conflict, the picture has changed and as W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian prime minister, sat down around the conference table with the President in the "Little White House" at Warm Springs, Ga., that Kingston speech stood out with special significance. What was discussed at the conference was not disclosed but one thing seemed sure: Western hemisphere war problems were not neglected.

Before leaving Washington, the President outlined for the senate a method to help the treasury meet its deficit by reducing capitalization of a few large U. S. spending agencies.

SUPREME COURT:
Pickets

In two opinions the United States Supreme court upheld the right of freedom of speech by declaring unconstitutional laws in Alabama and California which regulated the acts of "peaceful" pickets in industrial strikes. Both leading U. S. labor groups were cheered by the decisions for the cause of each was involved. In Alabama, the American Federation of Labor had challenged a state law regulating pickets which was passed in 1923. In the California case, C. I. O. fought against a 1938 statute, claiming it infringed on freedom of speech. Justice Murphy delivered the opinions and Justice McReynolds dissented.

AGRICULTURE:
Eyes Front

While hog prices were advancing to a new 1940 peak (still nothing to get excited about) wheat, corn and oats futures reached their highest point in 2½ years. Fear of spreading war coupled with reports of short grain crops forecast for Europe's breadbaskets combined to brighten the picture somewhat for American grain producers. At present Canada and Australia hold the largest surplus of wheat.

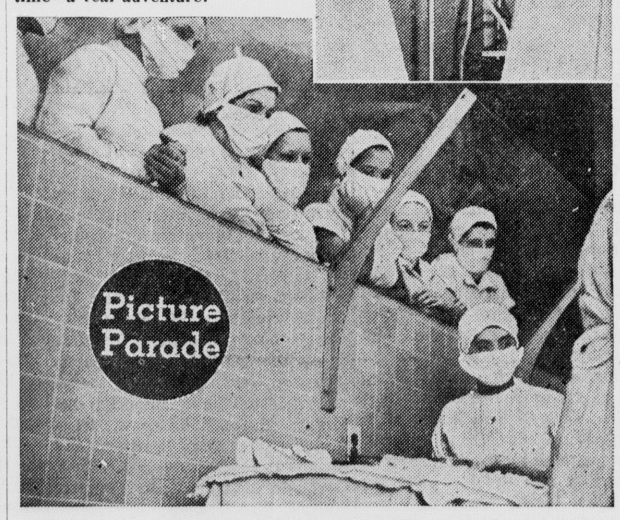
Nurses Get Rigorous Training In Hospitals Throughout U. S.

NEW YORK CITY.—National Hospital day, May 12, will find thousands of Americans visiting their local hospitals. Guiding the work of these humanitarian institutions are nurses, trained in any of the 1,375 accredited schools to become sentinels of U. S. health. At Mt. Sinai hospital, New York, is a typical nursing school, whose work is pictured below. Mt. Sinai has 235 student nurses who must have completed a four-year high school course with good record, must be between 19 and 30 years old, of good health and suitable personality. In three years they will have completed 6,000 hours of practical training and 1,200 hours of theoretical work.

ABOVE: The nurse's health may be an important factor in her patient's health. Hence Mt. Sinai's students have daily exercises to keep them in trim for the rigorous schedule. RIGHT: "Capping day" is a great event in their lives. After passing the 24-week probationary period, they proudly receive the cap and uniform which makes them full-fledged student nurses.

ABOVE: In the second half of their first year, students attend lectures on medical and surgical nursing, also working five hours a day in the wards. LEFT: Typical instruction. Students are taught the different methods of massage by actual demonstration.

During her training period, the student nurse assists at from 25 to 40 operative cases. First, of course, they must observe actual operations. Right: Two students are "scrubbing up" to assist for the first time—a real adventure!



Fascinated, intent, these students are following every detail of a major surgical operation, familiarizing themselves with the technique and procedure. Each realizes that soon she will stand at the doctor's side to help him save a human life!

Time out from the routine to open the day's mail from home.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Adm. Sir Charles M. Forbes, commander-in-chief of the British home fleet, may be taking his current naval battles rather personally. He has a charming Swedish wife, who was Marie Louise Berndtson, daughter of Axel Berndtson of Stockholm. Their home has been a salon of mingling British and Scandinavian culture.

British Admiral, Jutland Veteran, Heads Home Fleet

Sir Charles has not been particularly conspicuous in Britain's high command of the navy, but, by all accounts, he "has what it takes." Sixty years old, in the navy for 46 years, he has been in command of the home fleet since 1938. He fought in the Battle of Jutland, winning the D. S. C. From 1925 to 1928, he was director of naval ordnance. He commanded the destroyer flotilla Mediterranean fleet in 1930 and 1931 and was sea lord and controller of the navy from 1932 to 1934. He was second in command of the Mediterranean fleet from 1934 to 1936.

A British friend who arrived here recently tells me Sir Charles is regarded as perhaps the best naval strategist and tactician of England, of the esteemed "bulldog" type who, unless spurred by higher command, would attempt no too-hazardous exploits, but may be depended to go all the way through.

NO RUNS, no hits, no errors is a good score for a diplomat. The runs and the hits aren't expected in diplomacy and goose-egg in the error column is tops. Ray Atherton, scored thus after 24 years in the state department, is America's fully adequate minister to Denmark at a critical hour. He assumes charge of French and British interests.

U. S. Diplomat's Batting Average Rated at 1,000%

He emerged against the backdrop of the Boston Beacon street aristocracy, and was known as the "beau of the beaux arts," when he was studying architecture in Paris. After short turns in architecture and banking, he entered the diplomatic service as a career man, serving in various posts at Tokyo, the Philippines and London until his appointment as minister to Bulgaria in 1937. He became minister to Denmark last August.

He is a cautious, "message to Garcia" diplomat who has learned never to get out on a limb—No. 1 in the diplomat's rubric. This in spite of an occasional frolicsome mood, as when he named his infant daughter Helen Maria, in honor of General Dawes, his former chief at London.

IT WAS just a year ago that lean, grim, Calvinistic old Premier Hendryk Colijn warned Holland of big, bad trouble ahead in which innocent bystanders certainly would get hurt unless they prepared to defend themselves. His urging had much to do with his country's diligent war preparations of the last twelve-month and today, Mr. Colijn, no longer premier, but an influential elder statesman, says Holland is ready to make things extremely unpleasant for trespassers. In the World war, the astute Queen Wilhelmina managed to save her country by a miracle of adroit maneuvering. She might be able to do it again, but just in case, they have re-rigged their dykes for web-footed warfare, if necessary, greatly enlarged their fighting forces and co-ordinated their defenses for the best possible showing a bantam-weight country could possibly make against the big sluggers.

Statesman Colijn Warned Holland To Be Prepared

Mr. Colijn, 70 years old next July, is an amiable, cultured gentleman, not given to fighting talk, but not inexperienced in real fighting. His political and financial fortunes were advanced by his showing in some catch-as-catch-can milling against the savage Sassaks on the Island of Lombok, east of Java, when he was a young lieutenant in the Netherlands army. His service in the Far East brought him in touch with Sir Henry Deterding and he moved along with Sir Henry to wealth and eminence in the world expansion of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company.

He is a financier with a strongly liberal political orientation. In his public activities, he has been a vigorous foe of both the Nazis and Communists. In November, 1938, he denounced the Nazi anti-Semitic pogroms as "the most tragic episode of modern times."

He is calmly assured that civilization has staying power, air bombs or no air bombs. He has been leader of Holland's Calvinist party.

He was a farm boy who knocked off milking one night and told his father he was off to military school.

U. S. Bureaus Subject to Check Under Logan-Walter Legislation

Passed by House, Bill Would Allow Courts to Review Decisions and Findings of Nation's 'Little Dictators.'

By WILLIAM BRUCKART
WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—I sat in the gallery of the house of representatives one afternoon recently. There was as much confusion as ever on the floor of the house. Members were engaged in debate, and there was a great hubbub. Finally, the voice of the speaker of the house came clearly through the loud speaker system. It said: "The question is, shall the bill pass?" There was more commotion, but above the din someone was heard to say: "I demand the yeas and nays." A roll call was ordered. It brought 279 yeas and 97 nays. So the bill was passed by the house.

In relating those details, I merely wanted to set the stage to tell the story of a most important vote and the passage of a most important bill in the house of representatives. The bill bears the number of H. R. 6324. I doubt that many of the several thousand gallery occupants that afternoon recognized the importance of the scene then taking place. For on that occasion, the house was taking a long step toward restoration of democratic processes in government.

The bill under consideration and which was passed that day had come to be known as the Logan-Walter bill. As briefly as may be, we can describe it as a bill to allow the courts to examine the decisions, determinations, rulings or opinions of men and women in places of official responsibility from whom hitherto there has been no appeal. Moreover, the bill would allow private citizens the right of appeal for consideration of the facts, as well as the law, involved in any matter that had come to any one of these hundreds of little dictators—otherwise known as bureaucrats—in the course of their administrative job.

Ideals of Woodrow Wilson Contained in This Legislation

In short, I must recall the famous statement of the late President Woodrow Wilson respecting some phases of government administration when he said "The individual . . . should find justice against the government, itself." It is applicable to what H. R. 6324 is designed to do—enable the private citizens to protect themselves by seeking redress in the courts if they believe they have been wronged by some agency of the federal government which has acted as prosecutor, judge and jury. As the number of federal agencies have grown up—bureaus, boards, commissions, a veritable alphabet soup in recent years—the abuses sought to be reached by the Logan-Walter bill have multiplied many fold.

Now, the reason that I called attention to the scene in the house and the vote favoring the bill was because I have seldom seen so many government lobbyists scurrying around the Capitol. I believe the days when President Roosevelt was attempting to pack the Supreme court with six additional judges was the only period in the last few years when more government bureaucrats were to be found around the halls of the Capitol building.

Why? It is clear that the bulk of those men did not want the bill to pass for the simple reason that it took away some of their power. Under its terms, they can make their unwise or biased rulings to their heart's content, but the citizen who gets it in the neck can turn to the courts for justice. That is, the citizen can turn to the courts if the senate approves the bill.

Nation's 'Little Dictators' Dislike Tone of Bill

The house vote of 279 to 97 is not to be taken lightly. The house actually voted its convictions. It broke away from the sneers and the threats and personal pressure—even over the stated objection of President Roosevelt—and it passed a bill that was as distasteful as quinine to the hundred little dictators.

If amendments are needed, if changes will improve it, they ought to be made, but the public as a whole ought to push the senate into action before adjournment.

After the house action on the bill, the political columnist, Mark Sullivan, printed a decision by a court in Germany. It read, in part:

"Today's constitution is dominated by the principle of political leadership. The courts have, therefore, no right to decide upon the legal validity of political acts of the administration."

The quotation struck me as being especially important to this discussion because of remarks made on the floor of the house, during the debate of the Logan-Walter bill, by Hatton W. Sumners, the Texas Democrat. Judge Sumners is chairman of the important committee on the judiciary. In the course of his support of the bill, Judge Sumners said:

"Operating the machinery of government are nearly a million people. Of that million, there is only one who has been elected by the people, and that is the President. The President cannot know who these million people are. He cannot know what they are doing with the governmental powers entrusted to them. They make the rules that have the force of law; they construe the rules; they enforce the rules.

HATTON W. SUMNERS—"The private citizen . . . has no power to resist."

"When one of these people goes to an ordinary private citizen, he goes possessed of all the powers that a king ever had. This private citizen may be 2,000 miles away from Washington. He has no power to resist, practically speaking, the mandate of an agent of these bureaus. We have got to make it possible for a citizen to resort to the only place under Anglo-Saxon systems of government that an aggrieved person can come to, and that is the courts."

Judge Sumners' Statement Outlines General Situation

Judge Sumners put his finger on the spot. He told exactly what the situation is. But the judge did not go quite far enough, in my opinion. When it was popular to pass "must" bills that were drawn by braintrusters, professors and theorists, a few years ago, congress passed those bills. Congress added to, expanded and exaggerated the powers of the bureaucrats. It has created such things as the National Labor Relations board, the Federal Trade commission, the Agricultural Adjustment administration, the wage-hour division of the department of labor, the Securities and Exchange commission and scores of others. Indeed, it willingly handed over to all manner of persons the powers to do the very things that Judge Sumners pointed out should never be done under democratic processes.

I wish there were more space available that I could give samples of how some of these agencies have used the powers given them by a formerly subservient congress. They can be summarized only in this space by showing that, for example, a citizen is accused of having failed to comply with a certain regulation which is just like a law. The bureau or board having charge of administering that law calls the citizen to account. The federal investigator inquires into the situation, makes a report of the "facts" as he sees them. The board may or may not accept those "facts." If it accepts them, as it usually does, it makes them its own findings.

Under many present laws, no court can review those facts. It can receive the case to see whether the board has applied the law properly or not. But the finding of "facts" must remain forever in the record. They are accepted as true, regardless of how crooked, how stupid or how wreaking with injustice they may be. The bill passed by the house, and now up to the senate, will let the courts of justice see those facts.

Whether the senate will pass the bill is, as I have said, a matter of some conjecture. The senate ought to pass it. There probably is need for some amendments. The bill is far from perfect. It has some great gaping holes in it. But the principle is one of great importance to all persons who believe that the courts were established to insure justice for all and that no law ought to be enacted which would hand over judicial power into the hands of individuals who can do as they like without fear of a spanking from our federal court system.

LOGAN-WALTER BILL

Passed recently by the house of representatives and pending before the senate, the Logan-Walter bill, which allows the courts to examine the decisions of various governmental bureaus, is vital legislation, according to William Bruckart. If the bill is passed by the senate and signed by the President, agencies like the National Labor Relations board will have their findings subject to review by regular U. S. courts.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN Columbia decided to film "The Tree of Liberty" they decided to give the public more than good value. Many of the scenes of the book are laid in Williamsburg, Va., at the time of the Revolution and just afterward. And since the Rockefellers have obligingly restored most of the buildings of the town so that they look as they did then, Columbia sent the company to Williamsburg.

They also invited newspaper writers down to see Cary Grant, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Richard Carle and others working, under the very able direction of Frank Lloyd.

Students from William and Mary college acted as extras; in a scene made in wind and rain in front of Raleigh tavern you'll see them, dressed as students of the college were in the seventeen hundreds. The wind and rain were artificially produced on a beautiful spring evening.

The next afternoon Grant was to be photographed riding up to the door of a famous old plantation. The governor of Virginia and crowds of enthusiastic fans assembled to watch. When you see that scene, imagine the governor and the rest of us shivering in a chilly wind from the James river, waiting for the sun to come out, while Grant patiently rode his horse up and down until somebody pointed a candid camera at it at close range, making it so nervous that it ran away. Grant lost his hat and got his wig rumpled, and by the time order was restored the sky was too cloudy for any pictures to be made.

The following day a mob was to storm something or other, and a torchlight parade was to be held. So it rained. The picture people were patient; they're accustomed to that sort of thing. The newspaper people were not, so they went home. The only news was that the title had to be changed to "The Howards of Virginia," because the other one sounded too much like a Warner Brothers patriotic short, and that Martha Scott, instead of Joan Fontaine, would play the lead.

It's going to be a swell picture, one of Frank Lloyd's best—that's recommendation enough for any movie.

Director John Stahl, who has been connected with only two studios—Metro and Universal—during the past 25 years, has broken away, along with such producers as Walter Wanger and Frank Capra, to enjoy the freedom of making his own picture selections. You must remember his "Back Street," with Irene Dunne, and "Only Yesterday," with Margaret Sullavan, to mention just a few of his successes.

He's chosen "The Life of Daniel Webster" for his first free picture, and has signed with James Roosevelt to direct "The Boy Grew Older" for him.

Spike Jones, drummer in Oscar Bradley's orchestra on the CBS "Screen Guild Theater," refused an offer of $200 for a drum head recently. The original cost of the drum head was only $10—but it's covered with signatures of famous Hollywood stars who have appeared on the program, from Shirley Temple to Bette Davis.

Lanny Ross was recently nominated as the perfect date by a group of pretty girls who act as professional fashion models. To show his appreciation, he invited four of them to be his guests at a very smart—and very expensive—night club. When the night was over, Lanny, who was selected as the perfect date because he knows just what to do when escorting a woman, found that he couldn't pay the check—because he'd left his wallet at home.

Many commentators will air their views on the forthcoming presidential campaigns to be held this summer. To one, however, it will hold special interest. Many years ago Edwin C. Hill, "America's Star Reporter," covered the Theodore Roosevelt convention. From the time Teddy became President, Hill was referred to by the Rough Rider as "the unofficial member of my cabinet." This summer Hill will again cover a Roosevelt convention providing Franklin Delano Roosevelt runs for a third term.

White Satin With Lace Accents, Diamonds for Wedding Gown

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SENTIMENT for the wedding gown of traditional white satin seems to prevail among this season's brides-to-be. Not that exceptions to the rule will be lacking for fashion continues to introduce fascinating innovations such as white silk jersey draped in sculptural lines for the bride's dress.

For the very youthful bride a leading designer creates a vision of loveliness fashioned of 57 yards of fairy-like diaphanous net for the skirt and train. Then there is the excitingly new nuptial robe made of lovely deep old ivory ribbed silk faille. Even more thrilling is a beautiful model of brocaded silk that takes on a touch of color via a quaint patterning of romantic floral sprigs and foliage.

For the simple wedding, fashion declares in favor of the prettiest sheer dimities fancy might picture, which is in line with the new trend to wear smart and lovely cottons this summer. Along this line of thought is an entrancing gown designed for the bride who favors sweet simplicity. Styled of dotted organdy, there are deep bias-cut ruffles fluttering here and there on bodice and skirt. A low-cut round neckline finished off with flattering frills accents youth in its every detail.

However, notwithstanding the lure of bridal themes that depart from the conventional and usual, the fact remains that enthusiasm for a revival of time-honored traditional white satin is very apparent this season. Furthermore, there is an awakened interest in the all white wedding among prospective brides. The bride in classic white satin, the attendants in billowy white net, white lilacs, white roses with a plentiful showing of green in foliage and stems makes a picture of surpassing charm and elegance.

To distinguish the gown of ivory white satin, superb styling must reflect in every detail. The patrician gown in the illustration bespeaks that perfect finesse that proclaims its elegance. This lovely model boasts a basque bodice with wide picturesque skirt beginning from shirring at the hips. Exquisite Alencon lace inserted in the puffed sleeves carries an important style message that accents of precious lace on white satin is a feature emphasized in spring-summer wedding gowns.

The news about the brides pictured in the insets is that they wear diamonds instead of regulation pearls. Not a surperfluous display that offends good taste—not by any means! A single important piece is the theme fashion advances, perhaps an heirloom brooch or pendant. As aristocratic as a princess is the bride pictured in the top inset. The square-cut neckline with its dainty frill of filmy white tulle is ever so flattering. Her necklace sparkles, so does her tiara headpiece.

"Something old and something new" is the thought that is expressed in the charming little quaint headdress fashioned from the lace yoke of her mother's wedding dress worn by the bride portrayed in the oval below. The new diamond cross pendant that lends infinite enchantment is the bridegroom's gift. Her engagement ring is a marquise (boat shaped) cut—very new and very smart in design.

In regard to fabric choices for the maid of honor and the coterie of bridesmaids and flower girl that grace the wedding picture, it is interesting to note the revival of that old-time favorite, marquisette.

Big White Quills

It's a white season for millinery. If the hat is not all white the accent of tremendously large white quills will give the proper touch to a swank navy or black straw hat. For that matter the very latest is to trim one's voguish gray felt casual hat with a white feather or flock of little white wings. The novelty black straw hat pictured above shows the white feather advantageously in two enormous quills.

Organdy Necklace

A smart white lingerie touch is treated like a piece of jewelry in a new flower necklace to brighten a dark colored basic dress. The flowers are made of starched white organdy, each one edged with a fine line of red and strung on a rolled organdy band.

Paris Coats Show Fullness at Back

The new coats are of various cuts, fitted and somewhat flared; with movement in the back only; or straight. Morning and sports types again vacillate between the redingote, this spring with plaits in its back, and the ample coat that hangs from the neck or from a shallow yoke.

A newcomer is the coat that is flat in front and bloused in the back at the waist. There are a few capes, mostly rather straight, broad shouldered, and long enough to cover the gown.

Dark Twill Coats Spring's Favorite

Favorite coat this season is a dark twill cut on fitted lines, though a number of loose-backed ones are also shown. (It's smart to wear a loose plaid one over a plain suit.) Frocks to wear under the new coats are of printed crepe, jersey and wool.

Navy blue, black, milk chocolate brown, gray, cadet blue and sand beige are outstanding colors in new clothes.

Newest Silhouette Shows Slim Skirt

Outstanding news in the new clothes is a narrower silhouette in which a slim skirt is grafted to a bloused top either in coats or frocks. Otherwise spring skirts are gently flared below a long torso with an incurved waist.

GROWING CHICKS NEED GOOD FEED

Economy Measures Are Dangerous to Health.

By C. M. FERGUSON

Unfavorable feed prices start poultrymen figuring economy measures, but the calculations should not be carried to the point where economies in the feed bill jeopardize the health of chicks.

Milk is essential in the starting and growing rations for chicks and that its reduction below recommended amounts is almost certain to result in trouble unless some adequate substitute is provided. Milk is one of the best sources of vitamin G, which promotes growth, and it is doubtful if the reduction of milk below 5 per cent of the starting ration ever is advisable.

Even with 5 per cent of milk in the ration, some source of vitamin G must be provided as a substitute for the portion of milk omitted. High grade dehydrated alfalfa meal which has a rich green color and contains at least 19 per cent protein is the first substitute. Low grade alfalfa meal will not furnish much vitamin G.

The protein lost from the ration by the reduction of its milk content should be provided by a protein carrier which is low in minerals. Soybean meal with 41 per cent protein can be used. Mineralized soybean meal or meat scrap are not satisfactory substitutes for milk in the starting ration.

Dried whey can be substituted for dried milk at the rate of two pounds of whey for each three pounds of milk removed. A gallon of skim milk can replace nine-tenths of a pound of dried milk, and skim milk furnished as a drink for the chicks can replace all the dried milk in the starting ration.

Poultrymen who are mixing their own feeds should get prices from feed dealers on 10 or more of the ordinary ingredients and then calculate which combinations are the most economical at prevailing prices.

Green, succulent pastures and sunshine are without equals as growth and health promoters and as money savers. The chick range should provide green feed from spring until fall. Dried grasses do not provide vitamins needed by growing chicks.

Food Grown on Farms Has High Nutritive Value

Whether food production on the farm for use on the farm is worth while from the money angle has been debated widely. Soil, climate, and type of farming make real differences as between farm regions.

Looked at from the health and nutrition angle, as discussed in the new Yearbook of the department of agriculture, the case for gardening, orcharding and dairying for home consumption is clearer.

"Few appreciate fully," say the food economists of the bureau of home economics, "the nutritive contributions of farm-furnished food to the family diet—nutritive values worth more than the amount of money involved and not ordinarily purchased even when there is plenty of money. If, as studies indicate, relatively more farm families than city and village families have diets that can be rated as good, this must be attributed to the use of home-produced food."

In a typical year, the bureau of agricultural economics estimates, farm families produced approximately $1,250,000,000 worth of food and fuel for home consumption by the farmers themselves.

WHAT'S AHEAD?

Thoughtful people everywhere are stunned at the martial developments of the past year. A few madmen in Europe have so disturbed the peace of the world that no one now can estimate what the future holds, nor what part the United States may have to bear in it. The term United States means just you and me and all our neighbors.

More than a quarter of a century ago the same thing happened. Nations poured out their young manhood, their blood and their treasure to wage a "war to end all war." Woodrow Wilson had his vision; his famous "fourteen points" were ambodied in the Treaty of Versailles; the League of Nations was born and is now as good as dead.

And here we have the whole silly mess to do over again. For what? To maintain by force the Christian tenet that right makes might! Millions of innocent men will have to be killed, more millions mained to finish their days in a living death; millions of women and children to be rendered homeless, husbandless, fatherless.

Billions of treasure to be expended to speed the holacoust of death; the art and culture of centuries to be blasted and bombed to perdition.—that "truth may go marching on"!

And all for want of two assasins' bullets: one for spoiled Adolph, the other for Big-head Joe. These two persons between them have amassed unto themselves more evil power than Attila, Alexander, Ivan the Terrible, Caesar and Napolean all rolled into one.

With Hitler and Stalin out of the way the new war would fail of its own weight, because genius is never transmittable.

Give Napolean credit at least for loving the Gospel of Christ, which he read and revered daily. Hitler hates the church, wrote his own "bible" and proclaims himself to be "god" in his own small way. Stalin is impossible viewed from any angle.

Yet these two brutes in men's forms are now upsetting the peace and the very history of mankind. Their wicked skullduggery hands to believing Christians everywhere a Very Large Order: an Order to believe and keep faith, to be prepared, and to be willing to fight and die if and when the time comes.

Rather let us hope the unexpected will occur meanwhile: Hitler and Stalin have the same physical organizations common to us all: let us hope and pray that the weight of sin they are daily ordering to be committed shall finally crush them both to their inglorious deaths.

The combined prayers of Christian peoples constitutes the mightiest of all weapons, and now of all times is the time it should be used to the fullest extent by civilized mankind.

Meantime, more power to the British and French, the Norwegians and Finns and Poles and Czechs: may their arms and their Christian rights prevail! —W.W.

GRANGE OPPOSES CHAIN STORE TAX

WASHINGTON—One of the most important in the long line of witnesses including the farmers, consumers, retailers and manufacturers to appear before the House Ways and Means subcommittee hearing in protest against the Patman chai nstore death sentence bill was Fred Brinkman, Washington representative of the National Grange. This organization includes 800,000 farmers. Previously the American Farm Bureau Federation had presented its resolution against this type of taxation as seriously interfering with the processes of distribution important to all agricultural interests. Brinckman condemned the bill as a "perversion of the taxing power of the government to burden one class of distribution for the benefit or advantage of another".

Brinckman read the Grange resolution of Peoria and also quoted from the Declaration of Purpose of the Grange, calling for closer relationship between producers-consumers and urging "elimination" of "surplus of middlemen" because "we do not need them—their surplus and exactions diminish our profits".

He quoted the Consumers' Counsel of AAA in 1939 as estimating the farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar as only 39 cents and conceding transportation and distribution "indispensable factors," asserted when these services combined take vastly more than the producer received, "it amounts to perpetration of economic crime".

SCHOOL PATROL LEADS U. S. SAFETY FORCES

Fatal traffic accidents involving children aged five to fourteen have decreased by thirty per cent during the past fifteen years, while the traffic death rate for all other age groups has increased greatly during that period.

Most of the credit for this saving of child lives is attributed by leading safety authorities to the work of the School Safety Patrol, according to the California State Automobile Association, sponsor of the Patrol movement in northern and central California and Nevada. School Safety Patrol Day at the Fair May 29 will be a tribute to this achievement.

Sharing the credit, the motorists organization pointed out, are the teachers, the school and police officials directly in charge of Patrol activities, Parent-Teacher groups, and other organizations.

Launched in San Francisco by the Automobile Association in 1923 in cooperation with the board of education and police department. the Patrol idea has grown until 275,000 boys and girls are now engaged in the work throughout the United States.

Put a circle round the date, Tuesday, May 7!

It's the day when California holds her presidential primary, the day when millions of citizens enjoy the privilege of voicing their political preferences in unmistakable language. Democracy will survive anl maintain its stability and good health only so long as its citizens energetically and faithfully make use of their prime instrument of power—the ballot!

The May 7 primary should witness the largest turn-out of voters in State history. No less than 3,652,274 persons are eligible to vote, an all-time record. Do your bit in supporting your party and your democracy by voting on May 7!

PLEASE PARTICIPATE!

Pastors and priests conducting churches of whatever denomination, in Washington Township are urged to send or bring in their schedules of weekly services, by Tuesday of each week at The Register office in Niles, so that your editor can run a column of church notices in each issue of this newspaper, covering all the churches in the Township.

This service will be conducted without charge and should prove of value to Register readers who are church communicants.

I want you to feel this is YOUR newspaper, not just for Niles, but for all of Washington Township.

Please participate!

KRAFTILE ISSUES NEW BOOKLET ON "TILE IN HOMES"

COLOR FEATURES USE OF LOCAL PRODUCTS IN KITCHENS & BATHROOMS

With an artistic appeal to the consuming public, the new issue of Kraftile's "Ideas for Kitchens and Bathrooms" is just off the press and is being distributed not only to prospective owners of dwellings but to architects, engineers, builders, contractors and tile dealers.

Two half-pages in four colors feature installations. A kitchen design for a $7,500 dwelling by Frederick H. Reimers, architect, makes attractive art for the first page of the six-page folder. Another attractive page shows a bathroom designed by Frederick L. Confer, architect.

Two other widely known architects are quoted in the folder which carries their photographs. These are Mario Corbett, whose California homes have attracted national attention, "an enthusiastic admirer of Master-Kraftile 6 x 9's" and Wilton Smith, of San Francisco. Mr. Smith considers Master-Kraftile 6 x 9's" the smartest trend in wall tiling in the last twenty years".

Besides four-color cuts, the folder in featuring Kraftile colors "inspired by nature's tints and hues in the West", carries a group of line sketches showing various types of installation. Patio, doorway, and other features are also depicted, as well as the handsome color swatches in life-like reproduction.

Kraftile Company's consumer campaign has resulted in many thousands of inquiries, according to C. W. "Chuck" Kraft, president. Kraftile's series of advertisements in Sunset, he said, is the basic source of contact with prospects in the Pacific Coast area.

Olympia was pushed into the rear seat of the big car. The Senator clambered after her and took her in his arms.

"Be brave, my dear, be calm," he said, through clenched teeth, and the cameramen got a very good flash of them, the Senator looking stern and noble, with Olympia in his arms, weeping like Rachel for her lost children. Police cleared the way. The big car rolled off.

The crowd was a little surprised to hear the roaring of motors as the car went off. But they waited. They would be back, probably, in five minutes, with the lovely young girls in tow. But when Jim Allen, slowly rallying, struggled to his feet, wiping blood from his face, they rose instinctively. If that blood wasn't beet juice, this was real drama. Jim Allen was helped to the platform.

"Ladies and gentlemen!" he roared, still mopping blood. "That's our candidate! That's the man we Democrats stand for! What's an election to a man whose home has been ravaged? What are votes to a Democrat whose most sacred feelings have been profaned? That's the candidate we give you—one who will knock down his state chairman to go to the aid of his children! Ladies and gentlemen, do what you like with this rally. I'm going to help our candidate rescue our children!"

Evidently, then, it was no plant. As the constituents streamed out of the auditorium following Jim Allen, whose nose continued to bleed with theatrical profusion, their resentment rose. These were their orphans who had been subjected to this outrage.

"Call the police!" "Get out the G-Men!" "Give us our children!" "Down with Wilkie!" "Were the police asleep?"

A pandemonium of cars swept away in the wake of the Senator. The wind-up rally joined the rescue. A dozen busses, hastily filled, followed more slowly. Only those luckless ones remained who had come on foot or by train and had no emergency conveyance. These, left behind, eventually clustered together and burst into noisy imprecations of the Opposition, interspersed with cheers for Sloppy, boos for Wilkie, and finally fell into a sustained chant:

"We want our orphans! We want our orphans! We want our orphans!"

Unfortunately, the Senator and Aunt Olympia were unaware of this loyal demonstration. They had retired from the campaign in a dead silence, over the prostrate form of good old Jim Allen, the state chairman; followed, so far as they knew, by the unbounded indignation of an offended constituency.

For twenty noisy miles, Olympia was satisfied to sob on the Senator's breast, in which burned a volcano of suppressed passion. Finally she found voice.

"I only wanted them—to rest a little, Del," she said humbly. "I left Ben to bring them. I thought of course they would be safe."

"Be calm, my dear, be brave," said the Senator, patting her shoulder with a hand that itched for Brother Wilkie's throat.

"If they've harmed a hair of those children's heads," moaned Olympia, "I'll choke him with my bare hands, and what's more, I'll sue him."

"Be calm, Ollie, be brave," crooned the Senator, between set teeth.

So it was Aunt Olympia and the Senator with a belligerent police escort, who roared into the Republican rally at Lancaster.

As soon as the car came to a halt, the Senator crawled over Olympia's feet and started to get out.

"You stay here! This is no place for a woman! This is going to be a knock-down, drag-out engagement!"

His ferocity terrified Aunt Olympia. She was as mad as he was, and just as determined to fight it out. But she wished he would leave it to her. After all, her first responsibility was the Senator. She grabbed him with both hands. After the wear and tear of the long campaign, at his age, in his state of health, he was not physically able to cope with a set of blackguards who would stoop to such depths of lawlessness. He must not impair his dignity by engaging in a common street brawl with ruffians. Besides, he would get his glasses broken. So she hung on and was drawn with him from the tonneau.

And the first thing she saw was Len Hardesty, standing with both arms outstretched against the rear door of the sound truck, from which the police had gradually edged the crowd away.

"Len Hardesty—you—you give me my children! You let them right out of there this minute or I'll call the police!"

"Shut up, Olympia," he said. "They can't come out. They haven't any clothes on!"

"They haven't any clothes—" Suddenly Aunt Olympia remembered. She had forgotten to take the suitcase from the trailer. "Del!" she cried. "They'll—catch their death of cold!" And would have collapsed, had she not been supported by the Senator and a couple of policemen.

The girls, watching from the narrow little windows at the top of the rear door, had seen the beloved and sheltering, though agitated, figures of the Senator and Aunt Olympia.

Limpy opened the door defiantly.

"Len Hardesty!" she screamed. "You give me my Uncle Lancy, this minute! You give him right here!" The defiant voice then rose to a familiar wail. "Aw, Uncle Lancy."

When had Uncle Lancy heard that appeal in vain? He did not hesitate a moment. He relinquished Olympia to the arms of the policemen with all the dignity of an old Roman, in smart fall coat instead of toga, and bore down on the truck. He didn't say a word. He waved his arm and Len Hardesty stood aside. The Senator stumbled up the steps.

"My poor children—" he began. But Limpy interrupted.

"Come over here to this mike and give them a piece of your mind," she ordered. "They said the most outrageous things about you. They said you were a hopeless inefficient and turned the lights on us to prove it. Tell them, Uncle Lancy!"

"My dear—" he remonstrated gently.

"Here's the mike," said Limpy.

There was only one thing to do in the presence of a microphone. Uncle Lancy cleared his throat.

"Ladies and gentlemen!" he roared.

The bands, which had been instructed to stop playing when the speeches began, stopped at the first syllable. The musicians wanted to get over to the truck themselves and see what was going on.

"Ladies and gentlemen of the Opposition!" went on the Senator. "This is Senator Slopshire addressing you from my own sound truck which was in dastardly fashion stolen by one I have loved and trusted for many years. I shall neither love nor trust him again . . . So I am accused of inefficiency, eh? Well, if to put trust in a man at whose pulpit I have sat for spiritual guidance, who has blessed my food—which I gladly shared with him—if to put trust in that man is inefficient, then I plead guilty! Yes! I am a hopeless inefficient! I did trust him!

"This is the closing night of my campaign for re-election. Thousands had gathered at Trentfare to hear my final message and my summary of the issues of this campaign. But the instant I heard that these children of mine had been ruthlessly snatched from the swimming pool and dragged away on this chilly autumn night in thin bathing suits, still wet from swimming—when I heard that, I stopped in the middle of a sentence. I waived the issues. I relinquished the campaign. I sacrificed any votes to be gained there and rushed here at full speed to save my children. If that is inefficiency, yes! I am a hopeless inefficient!

"Crouched beside me, here in my sound truck, are these three girls, three American children, bereaved young orphans. They are still in the wet bathing suits they wore when kidnaped, they are shivering and blue with cold. Their very lives have been endangered by this despicable act. I could stand here for hours expounding the issues of this campaign; it is a great opportunity; but I relinquish that opportunity. I sacrifice any votes to be gained here. I go to take my children to warmth and comfort; I go to see them safe in their little beds, with what precautions may be taken to save them from the danger of this terrible exposure they have suffered. If that is inefficiency, ladies and gentlemen, yes! I am a hopeless inefficient."

"Give them some Bible," said Limpy grimly. "They used Bible on you."

The Senator hesitated briefly. He hadn't been brought up on the Bible like Brother Wilkie and the girls. He had a special clerk to handle his quotations. He tried desperately to remember something.

" 'As ye sow, so shall ye reap,' " he finally roared. "I thank you."

"Come on, girls," he ordered and immediately left the truck. Again cameras were grinding, lights flashing. The Senator saw nothing, heard nothing. As he told Olympia afterward, he was so burned up he didn't even remember making a speech.

"Come on," he thundered to the girls from the bottom of the steps.

They hung back shyly, fearing the crowd, the cameras, the lights.

"I'll go first," said Helen bravely. "Stop crying, Limpy. Keep your head up! We've nothing to be ashamed of."

Very pale, unsmiling, with young head high—dignified, even with wet curls clinging to brow and cheeks—Helen went down. Adele followed, looking straight ahead of her, eyes wide, lashes unlowered.

"Oh, my darling," groaned Len Hardesty as she passed, but she did not turn her head.

She was shivering; more from nervous excitement than from cold, for their heated emotions had warmed them. But the crowd did not know that. Angry cries went up, Opposition though they were.

"Disgraceful!" — "Disgusting!" "Poor things!" "Isn't she lovely?"

A lady took off her fur scarf and placed it on Adele's shoulders. "Take it, darling," she said sympathetically. "I'll come and get it some time."

Limpy came last, looking small and woebegone, with childish, tear-stained voice. She could not raise her eyes, she could not see. Uncle Lancy was waiting for her. As she stumbled weeping on the step, with a grand gesture he took off his smart fall coat and put it about her, picked her up in his arms and carried her to the door of the car.

Aunt Olympia tried to take her away from him, but the Senator was firm about that. He held her tightly. There was a little confusion getting into the car. Helen and Adele had hurriedly crept into the rear seat, but since both Uncle Lancy and Olympia wanted to sit with Limpy, they got out, huddled now in warm automobile robes generously contributed by tearful sympathizers and got in the front seat with the driver. Martin was at the wheel, Ben Baldy being so wrought up over the occurrence he could not be trusted to drive carefully.

Limpy at last was warmly ensconced between uncle and aunt, each with an arm around her and trying to pull her away from the other.

"Leave her alone, Ollie," said the Senator, with unaccustomed acerbity. "I'm trying to warm her up."

"I'm warmer than you are, Del!" she said angrily. "Her place is in a mother's arms!"

Limpy diplomatically continued to weep bitterly and submitted to pulling from both sides.

"Home, Martin, fast!" said the Senator.

"But drive carefully," said Aunt Olympia. "An accident would make them nervous."

For many miles the car sped along in complete silence except for the screaming sirens of the biggest police escort accorded any candidate in any state in the 1938 campaign. Finally, in a small voice, Limpy spoke.

He held her tightly.

"Uncle Lancy, perhaps I'd better make a clean breast of it," she said humbly. "You may as well know the worst. I—I made a—sort of a speech."

Uncle Lancy patted her knee with his free hand. "Did you indeed?" he said heartily. "That was nice of you, Limpy."

"It wasn't so hot," she confessed. "I'm afraid it was a little too—extemporaneous . . . I didn't seem to have much to say."

"I have the same trouble myself," said the Senator encouragingly. "I often wonder how I can talk as long as I do when I have so very little to say."

"What did you say, Limpy?" asked Aunt Olympia, jealously edging into the conversation.

"Oh, I didn't say much," admitted Limpy. "I—I just said Uncle Lancy is—a swell guy."

Uncle Lancy was so touched that he started to reach for his glasses but remembering just in time that Aunt Olympia would get Limpy away from him if he did, he resigned himself and settled back in the fog.

"A very commendable sentiment," he said approvingly. "I've often wanted to say the same thing but I never could find just the opportune moment for it. You have to get a good break to work in a thing like that. I congratulate you, my dear."

"Be quiet," said Olympa rudely. "The girls are too tired to be talked to."

Hilda, though she had not expected them for hours, received them dourly but without surprise. She did not even raise an eyebrow at sight of the girls, in swim suits, swathed in automobile robes. It was not easy to surprise Hilda.

"Where are the prizes?" she inquired, with irritable interest.

"Prizes!" boomed Aunt Olympia.

"Wasn't it a beauty contest?" said Hilda. "Seems as if to me they're dressed for it."

She helped Aunt Olympia give them hot baths and rub them down with rough warm towels; gave them all the hot lemonade they could drink and warmed their beds with hot-water bottles. Uncle Lancy telephoned the doctor to find what preventive measures should be taken and was relieved to learn that everything that had been done was the right thing, and that they need only be kept warm and quiet until they had thoroughly recuperated.

"And if they catch anything, we'll see what to do next," said the Doctor, which Uncle Lancy faithfully retailed to Aunt Olympia.

As a final precaution, Aunt Olympia made each take an aspirin and five grains of quinine. Hilda closed the windows and lowered the blinds.

"Now, just calm down, my dears, and go to sleep," said Aunt Olympia soothingly. "If you feel wakeful or nervous or a chill coming on, ring immediately for Hilda and she'll give you more hot lemonade and quinine. And thank God it's over. You've been to Waterloo and now you are safe and warm in your little beds on St. Helena. Don't get up tomorrow. You can have your meals in bed. There'll be quite a rumpus and more reporters nosing around, but keep your door shut and I'll strangle a few, if necessary. Stay in bed a week if you want to. I'll very likely stay with you. And don't worry. I'll bring you Len Hardesty's head on a platter first time I get my hands on him."

Then she turned off the lights and closed the door.

She headed at once for the room she shared, rather grudgingly, with the Senator.

"Another pitcher of hot lemonade for the Senator," she said to Hilda over her shoulder.

The Senator was already in nightshirt and bathrobe and warm slippers. He was smoking a cigarette.

"Did you take their temperature?" he demanded. "Did they have a chill?"

"I wish you'd be more grammatical, Del," she said irritably. "How can three girls have one temperature and one chill? Did you change to your flannel nightshirt?"

"My dear, it's a very mild night. You know I never change to flannel till the first snow."

"It's a chilly night, or I miss my guess! I've got trouble enough without pneumonia." She fished roughly about in a drawer and produced the flannels. "Change," she ordered briskly. "And be quick about it."

The Senator made the exchange rather than start an argument.

"Did they seem feverish?" he asked.

"If Limpy caught cold—and she's still shivery—I'll sue that louse," said Aunt Olympia, to whom sueing was a far more menacing procedure than a mere wringing of necks. "In fact, I'm not sure but I'll stand on my constitutional rights and sue the American system. You'd better get in bed, Del. Here comes Hilda with your lemonade and whisky. You'd better take these two quinine, first."

"You only gave them one quinine," he remonstrated.

"More grammar. One apiece," she reproved him severely. "Anyhow, you're older than they are and have less reaction . . . You don't feel anything coming on, do you?"

The Senator got into bed. "Yes, I feel a fade-out coming on," he said, with a smile that was not rueful. "And it was worth it. Did you hear me take the hide off Brother Wilkie?"

"If he just manages to trip over that carpet they blackmailed me into buying and breaks his neck, it'll be cheap at the price . . . Give him two jiggers, Hilda."

"You've had a pretty easy summer, so it won't make any difference if you lose a little sleep tonight, Hilda," she said. "I want you to keep an eye on the girls and if any of them seems to be catching anything, you call me immediately and 'phone the doctor. And don't disturb us. Don't ever disturb us again as long as we live. If anybody calls up, you say the Senator's running for chief shiek of the United Mohammedans and is in a conference with Allah. If reporters come, give them rat poison. We don't want to see anybody or hear anything for the next six months. If you need help, call the police."

"Won't you be wanting coffee?" asked Hilda, almost hopefully.

"Yes. We'll be wanting coffee when we ring for it and that's all we will be wanting. Be sure to keep an eye on the girls and let me know if they start chills or fever . . . Coffee, nothing else."

"Won't you be wanting the morning papers?"

"Heavens, Ollie!" ejaculated the Senator, and the unwonted profanity showed how wrought up he was. "I forgot the press. Do you suppose they got pictures?"

"Well, thank God the girls have straight legs," said Olympia. "No, Hilda. No papers! Never any more papers as long as we live! Good night, Hilda. Go and look in on the girls, will you? If they need anything, let me know."

THE TRUTH COMES OUT AT TEA FOR THE CROWD
(See Recipes Below)

At the Tea Table

This the one year in four when the bachelor had better put on his running boots or else risk getting caught and deprived of the freedom he prizes so dearly. For it's Leap year . . . girl proposes and man can't very well dispose . . . at least that's how the legend runs.

There's nothing so modern as an old-fashioned engagement tea with which to make the announcement that Judy loves John and John doesn't mind at all.

There's nothing so modern, either, as inviting the young man in the case and his bachelor friends to the party. Now, in 1940, afternoon tea is not the "strictly feminine" affair it has been unjustly accused of being. On the contrary, Mr. America prefers the invigorating pick-up, just as long as he can take his tea exactly as he likes! This may mean with clove-spiked lemon, or a touch of candied ginger, perhaps.

Since the boys hate fuss and frills, and like a girl to come straight to the point without keeping them guessing, they would think it pretty clever to "say it" with hearts bearing the initial of the happy pair attached to the strings of the tea-balls.

Cookies are to the male what candy is to the baby . . . the most desirable bon-bon in the world of sweetmeats. So . . . if you know any girl who has gotten herself engaged and is about to tell the world so . . . suggest that she invite the boys along with the girls to hear the glad news and tell her to be generous with the cookies!

Frosted Squares.

4 eggs
2 cups light brown sugar
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup nutmeats (broken)
1 cup raisins or dates (cut fine)
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs until very light. Add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until the mixture is very light and fluffy. Sift together the flour, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, and cocoa. Add the first mixture, blending thoroughly. Then add nuts, raisins or dates, and vanilla. Spread in shallow, greased pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 25 minutes. Remove from pan while still warm. Frost with chocolate peppermint confectioners' sugar icing. Cut in squares.

Little Swedish Tea Cakes.

1 cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Ice cream

Cream butter and add sugar slowly. Cream well. Add well beaten egg and blend. Sift flour once before measuring and then sift again with salt. Add and blend in flavoring. Place a rounded teaspoonful of batter in very small greased muffin tins (1½ inches in diameter). Press batter up sides and over bottom so that there is a hollow in the center. Fill this hollow with an almond filling (about 1 teaspoonful).

Chinese Cakes.
(Makes 3 dozen)

1 cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
2½ cups flour
½ cup blanched almonds (broken)
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup powdered sugar

Cream butter and sugar. Add flour and almonds. Knead. Shape into small balls and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 minutes, or until done, but not brown. Remove from cookie sheet with spatula. Add vanilla to powdered sugar and roll cakes in sugar mixture.

Eleanor Howe's Cook Book "Easy Entertaining" gives you menus and tested recipes for almost every kind of party; there's a menu (with recipes) for a reception for the bride; there are out-door supper menus for beach parties, picnics, hikes; and there are countless menus and hints for planning children's parties, holiday parties and bridge parties, too. Almond Filling.

2 eggs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ lb. finely ground almonds

Beat eggs until very light and add sugar, salt, and ground almonds which have been put through food chopper twice. Bake 30 minutes in a slow moderate oven (325 degrees). Cool and serve with ice cream.

Toasted Almond Sticks.

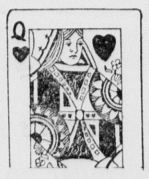
2¼ cups flour
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter (melted)
¼ cup milk
1 egg
½ pound blanched almonds (chopped)
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon almond flavoring
¼ teaspoon salt

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Mix beaten egg, butter (melted), milk and flavoring. Add to dry ingredients making a stiff dough. Grease a 9 by 13 cookie sheet with butter. Press dough evenly into pan. Sprinkle almonds evenly over all and press well into dough. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes, or until firm to the touch. Let stand a few minutes, and while still warm cut with a sharp knife into 3-inch strips about one inch wide. Turn cut side up, leaving a space between each stick, and return to hot oven. Toast to a rich brown. Will keep almost indefinitely.

Queen of Hearts Cake.

¾ cup butter
1½ cups granulated sugar
2¾ cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites

Cream the butter, add the sugar, and beat well. Sift the flour, baking powder, soda and salt and add alternately with the sour milk and vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into cake. Bake in two layers or oblong bread pans in a moderate oven (365 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and cut cake into small hearts with a cookie cutter. Ice with Queen of Hearts Icing.



Queen of Hearts Icing.

2 cups granulated sugar
⅛ teaspoon cream tartar
1 cup hot water
Confectioners sugar, sifted (about 1 lb.)
Red vegetable coloring

Cook sugar, cream of tartar and water in a saucepan until a thin syrup (226 degrees) is formed. Cool slightly. Then add enough confectioners sugar to make an icing of pouring consistency. Add food coloring and then pour over the hearts, covering them thoroughly with the icing.

Now that the engagement has been announced, there'll be parties galore for the bride-to-be. If you're planning to entertain for a June bride, be sure to read Eleanor Howe's column next week. You'll find, there, tested recipes and menus especially suitable for parties for a bride.

Popular Apron for Beginner to Make

HERE'S one to begin on, if you've never done any sewing. Pattern No. 1927-B consists of just three pieces that go together to become the most practical and comfortable of pinafore aprons—and it is a pretty thing to look at, too, slim-waisted and bright with braid. It buttons on the shoulders and slips on over your head. And then it stays put! No fumbling over complicated cross-buttoning effects, no slipping and sliding. It protects the top as well as the skirt of your dress.

Three or four aprons like this, in percale, calico or gingham, will make your home life much easier and happier. It's a nice suggestion for occasional gifts, too, and a sell-out at club or church sales, because it's the type every woman wants! Send for the pattern right this minute, and you'll be as enthusiastic as is everybody who has tried it!

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1927-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 2⅜ yards of 35-inch material without nap; 10 yards of ricrac. Send order to:

Braided Rug With Scalloped Border

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ONE day a snap-shot came from a reader showing a half dozen braided rag rugs spread out on the grass. No two were alike. I thought this one with a scalloped border was particularly interesting and the maker wrote me that the scallops do stay flat on the floor.

She uses wool rags and frequently dyes them the colors she wants. She cuts or tears them into strips an inch or more wide according to the weight of the material and then braids them tightly. The braided strips are sewn together with double carpet thread and she keeps the work flat on the table all the time she is sewing. For this rug, the center row is 15 inches long. Sew around and around this, using the colors indicated. When the oval is 31 inches long and 16 inches wide, divide it evenly around the edge with pins about five inches apart. Now, sew a row around with a 2-inch loop at each pin. Sew the next three rows around these loops easing the braiding in just enough to keep the work flat.

NOTE: "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family" is another interesting rug-making idea. Directions are in Mrs. Spears' Book 3, which also tells how to make spool shelves; streamlining an old style bed; and many other useful ideas. Write Mrs. Spears today, enclosing 10 cents in coin and book No. 3 will be sent to you by return mail.

How George Came to Get His Face Slapped

The dumb blonde on a country ramble entwined her arm with that of her boy companion, and gushed, "George, you're wonderful!"

"Thank you, Mary," answered George slowly. "You're ditto."

The dumb blonde pondered over this. Before long they came upon old Jollop, the farmer, who was tending his pigs. She took him aside and said: "Tell me, Mr. Jollop, what does ditto mean?"

Jollop thought for a moment, then said, "You see that pig over there by the fence?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, that other pig next to it. That one is ditto to the first one."

END BEFORE BEGINNING

Two old settlers, confirmed bachelors, sat in the backwoods. The conversation drifted from politics and finally got around to cooking. "I got one of them cookery books once, but I could do nothing with it."

"Too much fancy work in it, eh?"

"You've said it! Every one o' them recipes began the same way: 'Take a clean dish . . .' and that settled me."

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?
What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

COUNTRY CLUB PROGRAM PREPARED AT CENTERVILLE

Election and installation of officers will take place at the regular meeting of the Country Club of Washington Township next Tuesday. Mrs George A. Coit is in charge of the installation which will be conducted by the new dramatic section under the chairmanship of Mrs T. B. Logan. Mrs Dwight Thornburg will provide the music.

A Golden Jubilee Tea commemorating the 50th anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will follow the meeting. The luncheon committee of which Mrs Franklin A. Brown and Mrs Loren Marriott are chairmen, is making plans for the tea. Past presidents of the club will form the receiving line.

A highlight of the afternoon will be the honoring of two pioneer clubwomen, wh will be presented by Mrs F. T. Dusterberry, President of Alameda District Federation. Mrs E. A. Ellsworth will preside at the meeting at which all annual reports will be given.

Mrs W. A. Smith of Piedmont visited Mr and Mrs Thor Nordvik of Newark for a few days.

Henry Caravalho of Decoto and Ed Keugeman of Newark were given senior patrol leader badges.

NEVADAN BUYS CASTLEWOOD CLUB IN NILES CANYON

(The Pleasanton Times)

PLEASANTON, May 3—Sale of the Castlewood Country Club, comprising close to 500 acres two miles west of Pleasanton, was announced last week. J. A. Marshall, a single man, who had been operating a dude ranch at Pyramid Lake. northeast of Reno, Nev., is the new owner, and took charge last Saturday Purchase was made from the Anglo California National Bank of San Francisco and the West Coast Life Insurance Company, which recently acquired title to the property at a trusee's sale.

Amount of the purchase price was not revealed. The personal property of the club was acquired by the Anglo California National Bank Janury 9 in the foreclosure of a mortgage of close to a half-million dollars.

The club will remain open to the public for possibly the next month, the new owner states, and all reservations already made, some of which are as far in advance as August, will be taken care of. However, no new reservations are being accepted and the place will be operated solely as private property in the near future Marshall plans to raise thoroughbred cattle and horses on the tract, and will greatly improve the property, he states.

Personnel at Castlewood will remain the same as at present, at least for the time-being, except that A. L. Thomson, who has been manager of the property for the past several months, will be assistant to Marshall.

Thus the finest-improved large tract of land in the vicinity of Pleasanton, originally built and maintained as a home by the late Mrs Phoebe Hearst, again passes into private ownership, after being operated for a number of years as one of the finest golf and country clubs in this part of the bay area.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

NEWARK, May 3—The County Committee of the Farm Home Department held their meeting last Wednesday at the Sequoia Country Club in Oakland. Installation of officers took place as follows: Mrs Ozeta Sweet, county chairman, of Livermore; Mrs Paul Ramm of Castro Valley, vice-chairman; Mrs Elsie A. Evans of Fairview, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs F. May Williams, of Alvarado, publicity. The guest speakers were Mrs T. M. Simms, State Chairman of the Farm Home Department; Miss Ethelwyn Dodson and Miss Fleda Smith of the Berkeley office at the University of California.

Roeding Elected Vice President Of Tax Group

William A. Davis, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Oakland, recently was elected president of the Alameda County Taxpayers' Association, succeeding Frederick R. Peake of Berkeley. James H. L. 'Hommedieu will again serve as one of the three vice-presidents Peake and George C. Roeding, Jr., Niles, are newly elected vice-presidents. Stuart M. Hawley, treasurer during the past year, was re-elected as was Raynor E. Anderson executive secretary.

Four directors were elected to serve with these officers on the executive committee, namely C. P. Anderson, Capital Company; R. H. Cross, First National Bank of San Leandro; Earl W. Hall, Uptown Development Association; and B. L. York, American Trust Company.

In assuming the presidency, Davis declared, "It is obvious that we will never get tax reduction for the wishing. There are 79 tax-spending bodies in Alameda County, not including the Federal Government or the State of California, and they spent approximately $37,000,000 last year as compared to an expenditure of about $12,000,000 just 20 years ago. The per capita cost for public service during this period has more than doubled, yet the per capita income of the taxpayers has declined."

NILES MISS CELEBRATES HER THIRD BIRTHDAY

Miss Beverly Ann Russo, daughter of Mr and Mrs Salvador Russo celebrated her third birthday at her home on Riverside avenue.

The evening was spent in playing cards and ended with light refreshments. A beautiful large birthday cake with three candles centered the table decorations. Miss Russo received many useful and lovely gifts.

Those present were Mr and Mrs Harold G. Gould, Mr and Mrs Alton Johnson, Mr and Mrs Italo Salvadorini and daughter Gloria, Mrs Carrie Martin and daughter Mary, Mr and Mrs Joseph Martin, Mr and Mrs Salvador Russo and daughter Beverly Ann.

RENEW LICENSES

SACRAMENTO, May 3—California motorists holding 1927 drivers' licenses are facing long hours waiting in line for new licenses unless there is an increase at once in the number of applicants, it was announced today by Joe Mattson, director of motor vehicles. Of the more than 400,000 1927 licenses outstanding only 27,000 have applied for new licenses in anticipation of the July 1st date for cancellation, Mattson said.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Ward Crane returned Monday to her home in Niles from a delightful week's visit spent on a ranch in Calaveras county, where she was entertained by a host of friends who gave her a birthday party. Her sister, Mrs. Sperry and a niece, Mrs Smith from Berkeley joined the group over Saturday and Sunday to attend the party.

Dr. and Mrs E. C. Dawson returned Friday from a week's motor trip to Death Valley and Southern California cities

LIGHT SHOWER

A light shower fell in this district Thursday afternoon, only enough to wet the streets.

Livermore Club Wins Rifle Meet Held at Newark

(Special to The Register)

In a 50 foot gallery rifle match held Friday at the Newark P. G. & E. rifle range the rifle team of the Livermore Rod & Gun Club defeated the rifle teams from the Hayward Sportsmans Club, San Leandro American Legion, and the Tangle & Twist Club of Mission San Jose. The Livermore team scored 934 points against 933 for Hayward, 903 for Mission and 373 for San Leandro. The men from San Leandro did not enter as a team as only two shooters were present.

The high scores for each team were made by the following men: R. J. Calhoun of the Hayward team with a score of 193, M. C. Dassel of Mission team with a score of 192, George Patterson of the Livermore team with a score of 189, and Charles Bez of San Leandro with a score of 187.

Calhoun of the Hayward team shot a 5 shot "possible" in the off-hand position. This feat is not very often seen in 50 foot gallery shooting.

Parade To Open Hayward Rodeo Saturday at 1

HAYWARD, May 3—This city will turn back the pages of history this weekend, and for a brief period live again the day when stagecoaches, cowboys and two-gun men held sway. The occasion will be the twenty-third annual Hayward Rodeo and Fiesta to be held May 4 and 5.

Henry Sorensen, Jr., and John Perry, chairmen of the pioneer day celebration, report that "everything is shipshape—ready for the starter's gun."

The Wild West parade will formally launch the fiesta on Saturday at 1 o'clock, and final plans have been made for the Cowboy Dance to be given Saturday night at the Burbank School Auditorium under the auspices of the 20-30 Club.

Harry Rowell, manager of the rodeo and owner of the Rowell ranch in Dublin Canyon where the Wild West spectacle will be staged Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, announced today the program schedule has been completed. Because only one performance is to be given instead of two as in the past, the events are to be speeded up so that the result will be "one continuous succession of thrills for spectators."

NILES REBEKAHS GOING TO ALVARADO

The next regular meeting of the Niles Rebekah Lodge will be held this (Friday) evening, according to Ivy Cull, noble grand. There will be a short business session, starting promptly at eight o'clock, after which the members will attend the reception to be given Henrietta Graff, district deputy president of District No. 53, at Alvarado, under the auspices of Alvarado Rebekah Lodge.

Those seated were Mrs Mary Bettencourt, president; Mrs Lucile Day, vice-president; Mrs Beatrice Enos, secretary; Mrs Mary McConkey, treasurer; Mrs Marie Williams, marshall and Marie Rose, guard.

NILES THEATRE OFFERS BOOKS TO PATRONS WED.

Patrons of the Niles Theatre who attend shows regularly every Wednesday night will receive coupons entitling them to a fifteen-volume set of Standard American encyclopedias, Manager Helm announces.

A small handling charge is made for each volume, and patrons may obtain sets with de luxe bindings if they so desire. This unusual opportunity begins next Wednesday night, and continues every Wednesday night thereafter.

By clipping the complimentary coupon which appears on page five of this issue of The Township Register and presenting it at the theatre when attending next Wednesday night's show, patrons may start their sets next week, Mr. Helm states.
